Subject:	user defined highlights
Description:	The highlightlist is not accessible in the gnome front-end. Tested it within windows and Ubuntu 8.04 LTS 32/64Bit edition. A further suggestion is allowing Regualar expressions within the highlight list.

Support custom highlight words (closes: #78)

Initial commit. Additional highlight words are required to be separated by non-word characters from surrounding text. A word can be defined as a regex by surroundng it with forward slashes. (In this case there is not yet any error checking). In the preferences UI, each new line specifies a new highlight word, so they can contain spaces.

The highlight list is disabled because it's not implemented, thus I changed this ticket to "enhancement".

Highlight should allow to be channel specific. Also highlights should have an exclude list.

For extra features, please make new tickets and set this one to 100% + resolved + git repo + git branch name, then I can merge it into master.

Very promising branch! For the reference here some comments regards the code (which I said on IRC):

<pre>

22:04:42 <meebey> Fish-Face: ok, the first thing you need to read about is: git rebase -i to squash commits

...

22:12:12 <meebey> Fish-Face: white space errors are: mixed white space (space with tabs)

22:12:29 <meebey> Fish-Face: or trailing white space, say behind code;

22:23:11 <meebey> Fish-Face: about coding style, local variables are _always_ lower cased

22:23:40 <meebey> Fish-Face: e.g. +   string[] HighlightWords =

...

22:26:05 <meebey> Fish-Face: its ok to use C# 2.0 and 3.0 language (compile time) features

22:26:07 <meebey> Fish-Face: for example:

22:26:12 <meebey> +   ((Gtk.TextView)_Glade["HighlightWordsTextView"]).Buffer.Changed += new EventHandler(_OnChanged);

22:26:17 <meebey> Fish-Face: -> += _OnChanged;

</pre>
