| Description: | When the IRC client was killed by an IRC op then the existing query chats are not enabled again. Also all existing channels are closed (thus all buffers are gone). |                     |             |

History

It didn't close group chats for me. But the person chats were broken after reconnect, at least I could not see new messages but it was sending them. The IRC engine re-enabled the chat without syncing it, so the frontends that have the chat already don't get new messages.
