Subject:	Option to make all channels "read" when connecting
Description:	Please make an option to unmark all the channels when connecting, and please make it configurable per channel). I have a lot of channels where i am not particularly interested when someone wrote something in the last days, but when i connect i have to click through all those channels and the server tabs to atleast see when someone writes something <code>_now_</code> .

ACK, this one is a bit annoying, I experience the same issue :) My idea was to fix this by remembering which last message you have already seen and when you reconnect it will only show "activity" color of for newer messages, but there is some bug in that code... A "clear all activity" button would fix this more reliable I guess.
