Subject:	Highlighting your text to keep track of your own words.
Description:	A option to enable to allow all your words to show up a different color, and not red (maybe the color could be selectable?) Along with the highlights of other people saying things to you, your own words being highlighted would make it much easier to keep track of a conversation in a busy IRC room. This could also be used in combination with other features, like one that might send highlights to their own tabs or hides all words but highlighted ones.
